tic policy. Jarramson Bavis, the late Secre-lary of War, and the master spirit of the Ad-ministration, but just avoved in plain terms that Cabe was the stake for which he and his associates played—that its conquest falled be-cause Congress refused to take advantage of the pretext for a rupture afforded by the sels-ure of the steamer Black Warrior. It was an honest and frank avoval. But what, we ask, shook the supple joints of the members of the House with such parsony me of fear that they could not, even under the lash of the Democratic dictators, be driven into soculescence with the known wishes of the White Hous? Fear of the Anti-Slavery sentiment of the North—fear of this searching discussion that the Republican orators and presses have maintained—four or this very clamor that Paintheart and his tribe deprecate in such whining tones. They had deprecate in such whining tones. They had seen what discussion could do when the Nebraska iniquity was broached, and they dared thus snatched out of the horzors of a bloody thus enatched out of the horrors of a bloody and perhaps long protracted foreign wat, by the definat tone that Rejublicanism assumed. And later in the career of the New Hampshire petitifogger, when the spirit that directed the repeal of the Missouri Compromise was fully developed and the outrages in Kahnas were the most frequent and atrochous, it was a wholesome fear of the Republicanism of the North, that accested and paralysed the hand of the assame, extinguished the torch of the incentiliary, and saved the Turritory to this day, from the

And if Kansas becomes free, Republicaciem, not the repentance of Border Ruffianium, must be thanked for the boon. In this Central American imbrogdle, the evidence is conclusive that Purace and a few of his confidential and personal friends were clearly implicated in the initiatory precededings out of which the war was developed. But for the operation of the causes that bid the propagandists keep their hands off Cuba and withdraw their cal-throats from Kansas, at any time subsequent to Walken's aight at Granada, this country might Walking's fight at Granada, this country might have become limplicated in the diagraceful fillibusterium that is not yet filly punished. Thus, in four years, Republicae effort has averted a war with Spain, and through bor, perthis time, shielded kames from the desiroyer, and has presented the interruption of our peaceful relations with the dister Republics of Central America. That we owe nothing to the forbearance of the propagands, their acts, when beyond the reach of Republican influence, abandantly prove. I was present at this score, and restrictly. I was present at this score, and a more magnificent and enthusiatio one I never beheld. The inhabitants were all abroad, in their gayest estive dresses, either with the Bibbop in procession, or on lesieds those in front of their bouses to receive his beneficition. On approaching the Charab, we found the young and old arrayed in two lines in front of it, and extending to a great distance. The procession stopped here, dividing to the right and left and filling the immense area; then on bended knees, and with hearth overflowing with joy, this yast assembling received the beneficition of their devoted Bishop. The large church was soon crouded, in the Sanctuary there was a farone for the Bishop, and on the corresponding side, a very elevated seat for the very Ray, Mr. Dasanthers, the distinguished Canadians of Illinois, and on the Altar was placed a magnificent to Altar was placed a magnificent and on the Canadians of Illinois, and on the Altar was placed a magnificent character and manifold calumnies. This was done with force and cloqueous, bringing joy and conviction (were this needed) to every person in that was assembly. We trust that this beautiful address, of which we believe a report has been taken, will be seen published. We regard this of immense value to the interand correction, which the condition of some portions of his diocese has made his most necessary and paintid day. For him, therefore, trials are a portion of his daily lite, which we will not regret, for these he knows how to accept, and bear and turn to good account; but we condemn and denounce, in connection with all this, the action of a portion of the secular press of this city. We condemn and denounce it, as interesting, most unduly, with the ministry of our Prelair. We condemn and denounce, it as calculated to lead many astray, and confirm others in their errors. With very surplish the finmes there, and that was the case with most of them, retarrant to find they bears of making ruins. in his hands, yet, the press of Kankakes and Obicago is silent as to this circumstance. It publishes not see word about the proceedyings of that festive day and gene. It is silent with regard to this great solemnity. Not a word of the transpise for the interests of religion; not a word of the honors paid to the Bishop; not a word of the honors paid to the Bishop; not a word of the sacred joy that filled his soul and the souls of the people. All this is suppressed, entirely suppressed, and in its place a dark picture only is presented to the public, the purchased ruffination of one wretch, who owes his life to the mercy of those whom he would offend—this is put forward as the action of a devoted, faithful people; and the entire scene of that day is placed before the people in this trief formed calumny:

"On the 4th inst. she Bishop of Chicago was burned in efficy, at Kankakes, by the Canadian Catholica of his Dianess."

We will not now further anlarge an this most disceptiable mode of suppressing truth, and of disseminating values by. We can this, and of disseminating values by. We trut that, this, portion of the Press, from which this grievance as or repeatedly suffered, will soon awaken to a better perception of its real duties, of its high and wedgel, and honorable functions, and to apple and the calculations and to suppressing truth, and principles.
